The Britain Nepal Academic Council (BNAC) invites scholars and practitioners from all disciplines as well as the curious general public to participate in the 17th BNAC Nepal Study Days in Edinburgh. BNAC encourages participants to make short presentations that share research findings related to Nepal or the Nepali cultural world. Research from all disciplines will be considered, including work relating to the Nepali Diaspora. We invite presentations that share research findings, preferably of work that has reached an advanced stage or has been completed. Details of previous study days can be accessed online here! We also invite proposals for research posters, for project descriptions and disseminations.

In keeping with previous study days, only abstracts will be circulated in advance, with full papers presented on the day.

Members of BNAC may attend the Nepal Study Day for free, while for non-members the attendance fee is £25. Lunch will cost around £10 (each day), to be paid in cash on the day. Small bursaries towards travel costs will be made available to students whose presentations are accepted.
